

Use Case: Tournament software system.

Actor: Customer.

Goal: You can participate in tournaments either individually or with a team.

The general idea:

- In the first you have several options, which are as follows: to register for competitions individually or with a team, and finally register admin.
- If you register an individual user shows you the contests available to you.
- If you register with a team, it shows you the group competitions and whether you can register for them or not.
- Finally, if you are registered as an admin, you can control many options, namely, to add individual and group contests, as well as by adding scores and closing or deleting the contest if the number of participants is completed.
